

Florida State University
College of Human Sciences
Health Professions Learning Community at Reynolds Hall

Welcome Letter 2021-2022

Welcome to the College of Human Science's Health Professions Learning Community (HPLC) at Reynolds Hall. Congratulations on being selected from a competitive group of several hundred applicants. All of our HPLC participants are first-year students with a special interest in medical and health professions. Through the HPLC program, you will experience the range of opportunities and resources available to you related to your academic and career goals in medicine and health.

These are the academic requirements of the Health Professions Learning Community:

1. For Fall 2021, you are REQUIRED to enroll in PET 1081-01, LLC Colloquium, a one-credit-hour course which meets on Wednesday afternoons once per week in the Sandels Building. The class number and time for this course can be found on the course schedule list online.
2. For Spring 2022, you are REQUIRED to shadow a health professional of your choice and attend regular meetings with other HPLC students to share and expand on your shadowing experiences. You may choose to complete your shadowing hours in Tallahassee or in another location during Winter Break or Spring Break. The assignment will be due at the beginning of April, 2022.

3. Faculty Directors

Dr. Angela Sehgal asehgal@fsu.edu
Mrs. Michele Garber mgarber@fsu.edu

Go Noles!

Angela Sehgal

Angela Sehgal, EdD, LAT, ATC
Florida State University
Program Director, Athletic Training
Program Director, Health Professions Learning Community
asehgal@fsu.edu
850-644-1899

The first session of PET 1081-01 LLC Colloquium on Wednesday August 25, 2021 at in Sandels 101 (exact time is found in the course schedule online) will be our welcome/introductory session. Your attendance is mandatory. See you soon!